The Day of the Triffids - RSA House Location Filming

RSA House was picked as the location for some key scenes in The Day of the Triffids remake.

The House was seen as a very uncanny No. 10 Downing Street in the two-part drama which featured apocalyptic-style footage of London as the world came under attack from a new generation of giant killer plants.

Adapted from the 1951 novel by John Wyndham, this modern-day version for the BBC has been penned by ER and Law & Order writer Patrick Harbinson.

Eddie Izzard in the BBC remake of sci-fi drama The Day of the Triffids which was aired over Christmas and yes that is the RSA No. 6 door in the background.
